FORWARD

Often in the future, obscure memories of a past football game may be conjured up in your mind as you relive the excitement of that last minute touchdown. You can recall how the rooting section went wild, cheering the team on to victory. Remember the spirit and enthusiasm that set the stadium to echoing? Basketball games brought crowds to their feet at the final gun. Remember the spirit and encouragement that seemed to edge the ball into the basket? Class plays and pageants gave the drama-minded students an outlet to display their talents. Remember the spirit and harmony with which they were presented? An invisible yet noticeable force was always present at these activities which achieved their ends so successfully. Spirit is the needed breath that puts life into a smouldering idea and blows the embers into a flaming reality. That unseen force is the "Spirit of Lodi."

Little thoughts and ideas resulted in the creation of "Sol" by Freddie Cooper in 1945. This quaint figure was originated to symbolize the "Spirit of Lodi". After several years of oblivion we are now reviving "Sol" to act as guide throughout this annual. Buddy Self has done the characterization on the following pages.

Superintendent's Message

The aftermath of two world wars, the tensions of the present cold war, the struggle between capital and labor, the invention and production of weapons designed to destroy civilization, the decline of religion, the high crime rate and the gigantic tax assessments are all being used by pessimists as arguments that civilization is rapidly destroying itself. One person said, "All I can do is pity the poor seniors who are being thrown into such a chaotic world."

The seniors do not need such pity. They are not afraid of chaos. They thrive on work and they do not expect to be pets of providence, nor do they pray for Ivory Towers where they may idly dream of unearned grandeur. They realize that what we have in America has been attained by thinking and working in a democratic society. They are also aware that what they will have tomorrow will be the result of their thinking and working. They will think and work to perpetuate democracy. Knowing that nothing social or industrial is ever finished, they will assume responsibility for making progress in these fields.

The seniors are learning the art of participation. They are being trained to retain as much rugged individualism as possible but at the same time to cooperate for the good of society. They have the mental and physical agility to meet the tasks ahead. The seniors will succeed.

Board of Education

At the end of each year it is evident how much the Board of Education does to maintain an efficient educational system. Each member gives much time and help voluntarily to see that our school keeps up its good standards of learning and progress. We appreciate their interest in our welfare and hope we will measure up in the years to come to the faith they have in us.

Principal and Deans

Mr. Paul R. Bowers, Principal

"The Spirit of Lodi"—what does it mean to you? May I tell you what you have taught me, over these past four years, to believe it means?

The Spirit of Lodi Means:

1. That everything you do is worth doing right. Outstanding work in every department verifies this statement.
2. That you believe in good sportsmanship and fair play. The good will held by Lodi throughout this area speaks for itself.
3. That you are friendly and considerate toward faculty, fellow students, and the adult public.
4. That you, individually, believed you had a task to do while at school. Remember, whatever you do, there is no substitute for adequate preparation.
5. That you, and the students who have gone before you, are extremely loyal to Lodi High. The fine school facilities, school interest, and school spirit, attest this fact.

May I wish you success and happiness as you assume your responsibilities in society. Keep "The Spirit of Lodi" within your heart. It will help you achieve higher worthwhile goals. I will be watching your progress with interest and pride.

Miss Ella Fedrau
Dean of Girls

We wish to express our gratitude to our dean of girls, Miss Fedrau, for the help and guidance she has given us this past year. She is always willing and ready to help any girl with her problems. She is admired by all of us for her cordial manner and for her efficient way of handling school problems.

Mr. Robert Trumbly
Dean of Boys

Mr. Trumbly, our dean of boys, has done a fine job this past year guiding and giving his good advice and friendly greeting to all boys. Not only is he dean of boys, but he coaches "A" basketball and "B" football. We are grateful to our dean who has found time to aid and help us with our activities.

At Work

Our Classes

Farm Shop

Mr. Glenn McMaster, farm shop teacher, is showing Clyde Culbertson (to the left) and Jim Burnett how to bend metal.

U. S. History

Facts aren't the only thing students learn in U. S. History. Here Mr. Cy Londahl is showing some interested students where some current news took place.

Stagecraft

Students taking stagecraft are busily setting the stage with the necessary props for the all-school play "Our Town."

Art

Martha Kemp and Delbert Thomas, first year art students, watch the work of a fourth year student, Marylou Preszler, as she works on an all-over design.

Our Classes

Biology

Miss Marian Leva, the biology instructor, is showing Carl Dierich, Delores Mischell, and Verla Hochhalter some pictures on "How Mother Nature Protects Her Animals."

Driving Course

Many students will learn how to drive a car carefully in this useful new course. Wanda Parker is behind the wheel with the instructor, Mr. Bert Gibbs, taking his place alongside the driver.

Mill Cabinet

With the aid of big machines much time is saved. In this picture Mervin Deutscher is the master of this planer with Mr. Arthur Payton giving his assistance.

Electronics

Putting a radio together is a complicated task for these boys in first year electronics. There are so many small parts to watch out for and put in the right places, but these boys are capable of doing it.

Our Classes

Typing

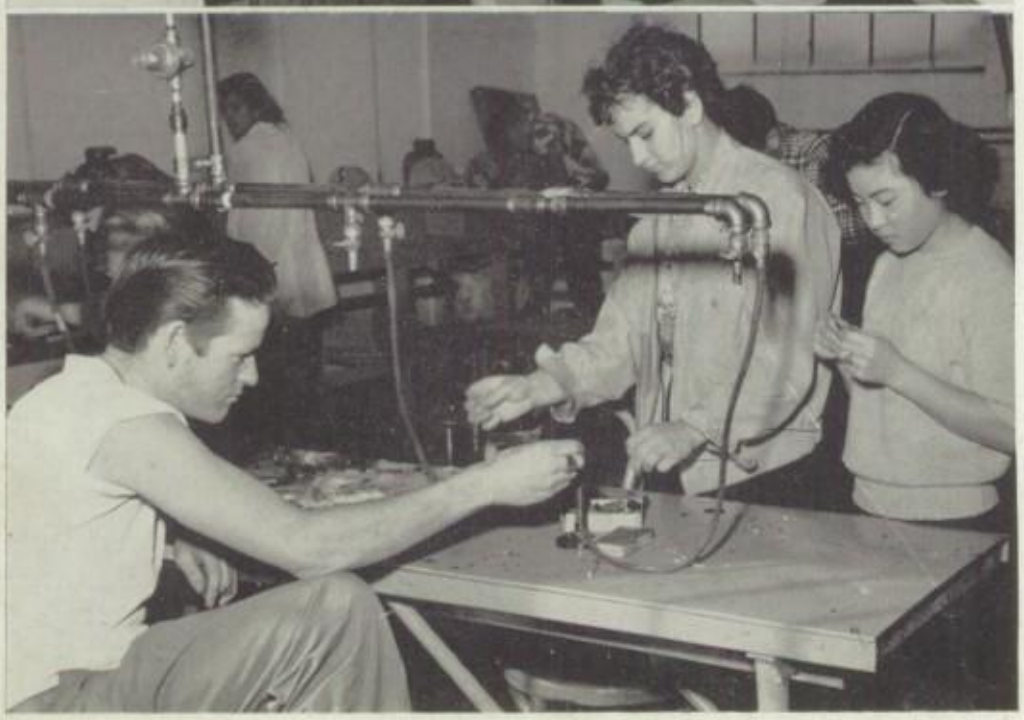
Typing is becoming more and more necessary in modern life. In this class many students have the opportunity to learn to type and to increase their speed and skill.

Ceramics

Making pottery is a lot of fun but it is also plenty of work. Pat Steinke and Bob Fitzsimmons have the job of putting the pottery in the kiln. Mr. Dan Boone, the instructor, is making sure it is done properly.

Mechanical Drawing

Mechanical drawing is a part of many boys' courses. This subject is very important because they learn to draw and interpret blue prints.



Lapidary

A new course this year at Lodi High is lapidary. Bob Dietz, Pauline Peters, and Grace Okazaki are busily polishing stones and seem very interested.

Our Classes

Geometry

Geometry is plenty tough. In the picture to the left Mr. Frank Hughes is explaining a problem about the exterior angle to Rhoda Steele and Stanley Pletz.

Home Management

Girls will be well prepared to care for their own homes. Myrtle Bender is showing the rest of the class how to make pie crust.

Auto Shop

Taking out dents is just one of the things many boys do to their cars. They also learn the parts of cars and what makes them work.

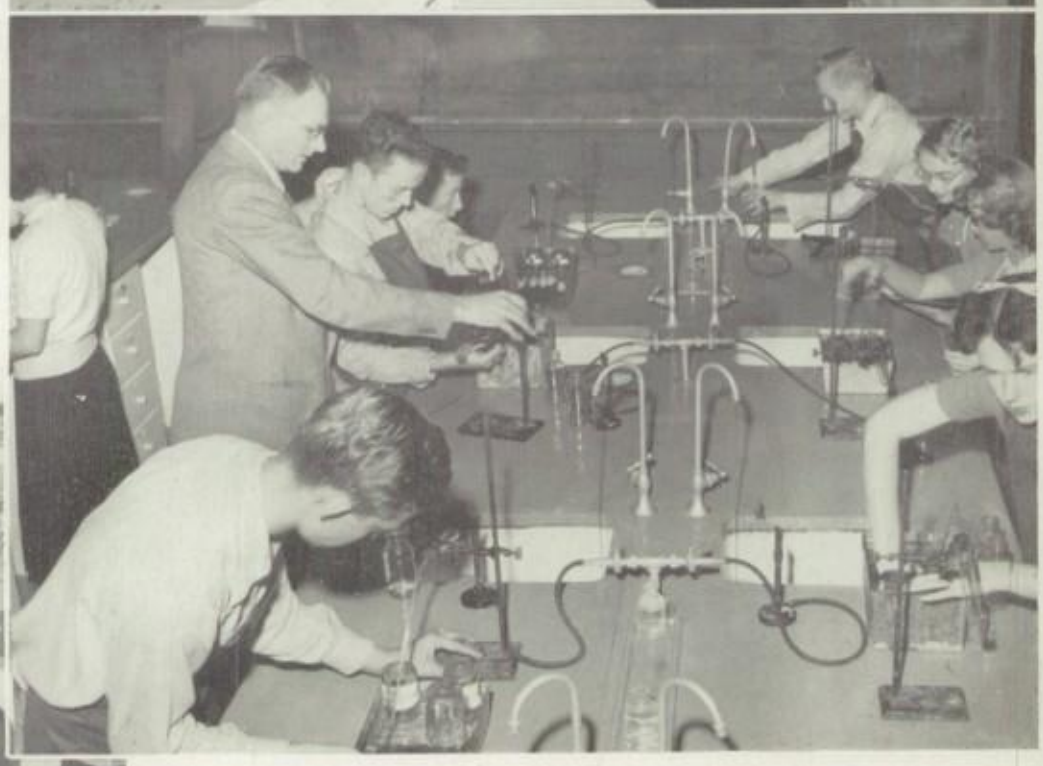
Office Practice

These girls in office practice are learning to use important office machines to help them in their future careers.

Our Classes

Algebra

With guidance from Mr. Roy Hanlon, Helen Alexander and Donald Maas have the difficulties taken out of a division problem in algebra.



Chemistry

Eager chemistry students are busily engaged in setting up their equipment to make oxygen. Mr. Harold Christensen stands by to help students in distress.

Home Economics

This tailored jacket will certainly look good on Betty Shaw when she finishes it. Jackets are just one of the many useful articles girls make in home economics.

Physics

These students are working on some problems in connection with water. From left to right they are Fredene Gesler, Beverly Ridenour and Pat Dougherty.

Juniors

This year's activities of the junior class began with the circulation of petitions for class officers followed by campaign speeches.

The play, skating party, and Junior-Senior Prom were the major activities approved by the class. Class representatives to assist the officers with the program of activities and with the dues campaign were chosen from the junior English classes.

The class ring, which was received in March, was selected by a committee in November.

"Years Ago" the prize winning three-act comedy presented by the junior class was well received by the public and students on the night of February 16.

The climax to a very eventful year was, of course, the annual Junior-Senior Prom held April 29, in the girls' gym.

Warm and lasting memories should follow the members of the class of '51 when they reminisce about their junior year at Lodi High.

Robert Perrin, President

Do you know what fun is? The Sophomores surely found out when they began their yearly activities with a roller-skating party on January 9, 1950, at the new roller-skating rink on the 99 Highway.

Besides the skating party the Sophomores had two other activities the following months. One was a dance held at the Girls' Gym with a variety of dances and refreshments. The other was a picnic at the Lodi Lake and had students all in their playclothes swimming, playing baseball, eating, taking walks, rides, and dozing in the sun. These were also very successful.

Around the beginning of the school year the class dues cards went on sale and turned out very successfully with the Sophomores exceeding their goal by $21.80. The dues cards and the tickets for the activities were sold in the English Classes by the Class Representatives.

Freshmen

The anticipation of an interesting school year for all freshmen was in evidence from the very start of the school term. Competition was keen in the class election which was held after appropriate campaign speeches were given at the first freshman class meeting. The successful class candidates were—Gerald McGary, president; Colleen Gallagher, vice-president; Dena Nietschke, secretary; Marlene Hops, treasurer; Richard Vaccarezza, class representative.

One of the highlights of the year became a reality for the freshman class with the honor of assisting future students during Eighth Grade Day. Eighth graders of the surrounding school districts spent an enjoyable day getting acquainted with the different classes and activities at Lodi Union High School. The members of the freshman class acted as guides.

The year slipped by quickly but memories of interesting freshman days linger on as a year very worthwhile.

Activities

Student Council

Pumphrey McBride, President

Mr. Paul Bowers
Mr. C. W. Naas, Advisors

Activity was noticeably evident in all this year's Student Council undertakings.

Heated debates and discussions were waged before the adoption of a new set of by-laws to the constitution and a new system of regulating athletic awards.

The Occidental College Men's and Women's Glee Clubs; Natalie Carr, soprano and dramatist; Marilyn Robinson, violinist; and Rose Resnick, blind pianist were among the assemblies chosen by the Student Council to be presented to the students.

Highlight of the CASC state convention at Santa Barbara was the election of Joanne Barritt to the state office of Speaker of the Senate.

A successful clothing drive for students in Lodi High's adopted school in France was co-sponsored by the Student Council and the Future Teachers Club. A campus clean-up campaign was held later in the year.

Nearing the end of a well-planned year on May 13 our Student Council was host to a meet of Section 10 of the CASC.

This year marks the twenty-ninth year of "Flame" publication.

The "Flame's" purpose is to inform the students and faculty of student affairs. Each "Flame" editor tries to complete a successful year, and I have done my best. There are many problems to cope with in getting the "Flame" out each week. A "dummy" of each paper has to be made beforehand. The stories and heads all have to be in on time.

As editor, I would like to express sincere thanks to my wonderful page editors and staff, who have so generously given their time to the "Flame".

Here are the memories of a year at Lodi High. Through the work of many people this book was completed for you. This is your Tokay with each page representing high school life and activities.

It is the desire of every editor to put out a book that everyone will enjoy. We have more pages this year than in the previous years. There are bigger pictures and less copy.

We hope this book will recall many memorable occasions not just today, but in later years.

Pat Lowdon,
Commissioner of Social Affairs

The Pepstirs under the leadership of Pat Lowdon, Commissioner of Social and Cultural Affairs, had an unusually large membership this year. Approximately 160 students were members. Despite the large number, all were kept busy planning rallies for basketball and football season.

Another accomplishment of the Pepstirs this year was putting the White "L" in the grandstand. One hundred sixty students wore white and those surrounding them wore red. Every student had a pom-pom and the effect was spectacular.

Lodi Chapter No. 1

The Lodi Future Farmers of America is one of many such organizations found throughout the rural High Schools of America. The Lodi chapter bears the number "1" as it was the first chapter organized in California.

The present organization numbering one hundred twenty-five members is one of largest chapters in the state. Six judging teams: General Livestock, Dairy Cattle, Poultry, Horticulture, Tree Judging and Farm Mechanics will compete for honors this year. One of the contests will be the Central Regional Field Day staged at Happyholme Farms and sponsored by the Lodi Chapter.

Our Town

The play was based in 1901 in Grover's Corner, a New Hampshire village, where Emily Webb (Peggy Pace) and George Gibbs (Larry Tanner) are neighbors and playmates. The plot is built on the love affair of George and Emily.

The play was unique in the fact that it had little scenery. "Our Town" was a huge success and congratulations were in order for drama coach Mr. Levy and also student director Betty Sayler for their splendid work.

The Lost Carol

This year's Christmas play portrayed a Christmas Eve in the year of 1818 in the home of Franz Gruber when he was inspired to write one of our favorite Christmas carols "Silent Night".

The Christmas play 'The Lost Carol" was presented to the students on December 14 and to the community on December 15.

The A Cappella choir presented the music. Two tableaux were woven into the play.

The sixteenth annual Christmas pageant deserves to go down in Lodi High's history as a success.

Years Ago

The junior play chosen for this year was "Years Ago", an autobiography by Ruth Gordon. The play was presented February 16.

"Years Ago" was a delightful comedy of young Ruth Gordon who wanted to become an actress. With the help of an understanding mother. Ruth finally overcame the objections of her father, a retired sea-captain, who finally gave his consent so she could fulfill her desire.

The junior play was rated as an overwhelming success by all who attended.

Heaven Can Wait

"Heaven Can Wait" was the successful Senior Play of 1950. Two performances were given, May 4 and 5, by an all-senior cast.

Joe Pendleton, a boxer, is taken to the heavenly portals before his time, and upon his arrival he is refused admittance. With the aid of Mr. Jordan, a heavenly being, Joe searches for an earthly body that is "in the pink". His adventures before he finds a suitable body are uproarious.

Three different stage sets kept the stage crew busy backstage.

Plaudits go to director, Don Levy and student director, JoAnn Coon for their fine efforts.

Traffic Patrol

The Lodi High School Traffic Patrol, an organization sponsored by the Associated Students, has a membership of twenty-six boys selected by the squad with the approval of the student council. The membership is representative of all grade levels.

Led by a commissioner who is elected by the student body, the squad directs corridor traffic during school hours and patrols reserved sections at football games. The group advisor is C. A. Londahl. Officers were: Dennis Krueg, Commissioner; Jamil Farhat, Deputy Commissioner.

In Appreciation

Before biding final good-by to the 1950 Tokay I wish to extend my sincerest appreciation to the following who have worked tirelessly to make possible the publication of this annual——to Mr. C. W. Naas, our advisor without whose guidance this yearbook would never have been a success——to Mr. Paul Zimmerman, photographer, who worked until the weehours of the morning to produce the photography which appears in the preceding pages——to Tolliver Printing Company for their kind assistance and excellent printing——to the administration and faculty for their cooperation during the "make-up" period of the annual——and to the 1950 annual staff, whose efforts bring this annual to you.
